Alex Bevan is a director of Bevan's and Head of the ADR Department. Alex has a civil litigation background and has wide experience; he specialises in large one-off cases and is currently engaged in an international trade mark and passing off case. His practice also includes complex employment disputes and financial services litigation. Alex has mediated over 240 cases and has represented clients at other mediations.

Professional Background

Alex trained in London with Masons, qualifying in 1977 and became an accredited mediator with ADR Group in 1989.

Mediations handled include disputes in these areas:

- Construction
- Intellectual property
- Finance and banking
- Partnership (solicitors and other professionals)
- Professional negligence
- Recruitment
- Pensions
- Employment and sexual discrimination and racial discrimination
- General commercial disputes
- Insurance including person injury
- Financial services and broker claims

Endorsements

Alex is ranked as a leading mediator in the law directories:

Chambers & Partners, 2008

"Widely known and highly experienced, Bevan has been praised for his 'uncanny knack of being able to move proceedings forward'. Interviewees are impressed with the manner in which he seemingly 'put the parties mind at ease'. He is renowned for his expertise in the employment field, and for mediating in general commercial disputes."

Follett Stock, 2009

"This man has achieved commercial settlements in the most unlikely of circumstances where to be honest I held out little hope - he should work for the UN".

Legal 500, 2007

"Bevan's covers a wide range of claims.... Alex Bevan is noted as an effective mediator"

Chambers UK Guide, 2006

"He is recognised by peers for his steadfast commitment to mediation".

Other Experience
