Practice Overview

Angus is a practising solicitor, specialising in civil and commercial litigation. He is triple qualified (England and Wales/ Scotland/ Northern Ireland) and brings practical legal experience of resolving disputes since 1998.

Angus acted on behalf of clients in many successful mediations before becoming a mediator. He has a valuable understanding of the needs of parties within a mediation, which helps to create an atmosphere of trust. He is pragmatic, with an approachable and informal manner.

Professional Background

Angus began his career in a small high street firm, qualifying as a solicitor in England and Wales in 1998. He joined Berrymans Lace Mawer solicitors in 2000, becoming a Partner in 2004. He moved to BTO solicitors in Glasgow as a Partner in 2014 to continue his legal practise in Scotland.

Angus's core areas of legal practise are: property damage; construction and engineering; product liability; policy coverage; fraud; oil and gas disputes; environmental liability; agricultural claims; cross border claims; and contractual disputes.

Angus acts on behalf of claimants and defendants and is regularly instructed in multi million pound cases with highly technical legal issues.

Angus is a member of a number of professional legal associations.
